THE BAILEY BAR & EATERY

A TASTE OF HISTORY IN EVERY SIP AND BITE

Set in the historic town of Enniscorthy, The Bailey Bar & Eatery proudly resides in a building rich with story and character.

By the late 18th century, the area was a hub for malting, with 29 malt houses in operation by 1796. Our building—once known as The Maltings—was purpose-built in 1895 by P.J. Roche, a respected malster from New Ross. He leased the land from William Moran in 1870, and developed it into a prominent part of Enniscorthy's brewing heritage. Now beautifully restored as The Bailey Bar & Eatery, we invite you to experience a blend of tradition and modern hospitality, where history is served with every dish.
